DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-3 and 8-14 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

In regard to independent Claim 1, the closest prior art of record fails to teach or reasonably suggest "a storage device for capturing a digital presentation, the storage device comprising: a buffer for storing a first page of rasterized data from a digital source; a timer for timing a receipt of a next page of rasterized data; and a data converter for storing the first page and the next page of rasterized data as a moving image if the next page of rasterized data is received during a pre-determined period of time after storing the first page of rasterized data, and for storing the first page of rasterized data as a single image if the next page is received after the predetermined period of time."

Regarding Claims 2 and 3, they are allowed as being dependent from allowed independent claim 1.

Regarding independent Claim 8, the closest prior art of record fails to teach or reasonably suggest "a method for capturing a digital presentation, the method comprising: storing a first page of rasterized data from a digital source; timing a receipt of a next page of rasterized data; storing the first page and the next page of rasterized data as a moving image if the next page of rasterized data is received during a pre-determined period of time after storing the first page of rasterized data; and storing the first page of rasterized data as a single image if the next page is received after the pre-determined period of time.

Regarding Claims 9-14, they are allowed as being dependent from allowed dependent claim 8.

Bruning (US Patent No.: 6989801B2) discloses that the present invention provides for a presentation display system comprising of a display screen for displaying an electronic presentation and a presentation device configured to provide the electronic presentation. An input screen is coupled to the presentation device such that when a user enters a notation on the input screen the presentation device incorporates the notation into the electronic presentation. In addition, a projection unit can be coupled to the presentation device configured to project the electronic presentation onto the display screen, where the input screen is coupled to the projection unit such that when a user enters a notation on the input screen the projection unit incorporates the notation into the electronic presentation and projects the electronic presentation onto the display screen.

Matsuda et al. (US Pub No.: 20030193566A1) disclose that in order to provide a projection system, projector, program, information storage medium and image processing method which can reduce an unpleasantness to an observer in an image calibration when it is executed in consideration of the ambient light, a calibration information output section selects and outputs calibration information, a color light sensor then measures XYZ values in the respective projected calibration images, and a measurement data is then stored in a sensing value holding section, when a synchronizing signal judgment section judges that no synchronizing signal has been inputted. When all the color correcting measurement data have been provided, a 3D-LUT update section updates a 3D-LUT stored in the 3D-LUT storage section, based on the measurement data. When all the brightness correction measurement data have been provided, a 1D-LUT update section updates a 1D-LUT stored in a 1D-LUT storage section to execute the calibration, based on the measurement data.

Abrams (US Patent No.: 6836870B2) teaches of a slide show presentation "plug-in" that permits the user to control an animated dynamic situation display during a PowerPoint slide-show presentation without interrupting the slide-show mode to edit the slide. A dynamic situation display file is encapsulated in a Slide object linked to a second window. A Replay Plug-In object is embedded in the PowerPoint slide to intercept user interface device (UID) events in the first slide show presentation window. These events are transferred through a COM Server object to the Slide object running in the second window, which uses a Dynamic Display object to control and edit the attributes of the dynamic situation display for replay in the second window overlapping the slide-show window.

Conclusion

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
